In an apolitical, non-partisan setting, Valley Forge Military College Center for the Advancement of Security Studies is hosting a panel of experts in national and cybersecurity. Panelists will discuss national and cybersecurity issues as they pertain to their area of expertise and answer questions concerning current national security dilemmas facing the United States. Discussion will focus on the real problems confronting citizens, the U.S. government, the military, and private sector industry.

MEET THE PANELISTS

Pat Meehan
Congressional Representative for Pennsylvania’s 7th Congressional District in the United States Congress. In the 113th Congress, chaired the House Homeland Security Committee’s Subcommittee on Cybersecurity.

Mark Kelton
Former Senior CIA executive with 34 years of experience in intelligence operations, most recently serving as Deputy Director of the National Clandestine Service for Counterintelligence.

Bob McCants
VP of Security for CSRA Inc., retired senior executive security professional of the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Reconnaissance Office where he served as Director of both agencies.

Dr. Antulio J. Echevarria, II
Former Director of Research for the U.S. Army War College. Dr. Echevarria is the author of Reconsidering the American Way of War, Clausewitz and Contemporary War, Imagining Future War, and After Clausewitz.

For More Information
CASSevents@vfmac.edu